

The UniSALESIANO – Centro Universitário Católico Salesiano Auxilium, is pleased to invite you to participate, together with your academics, in the 1st International Congress on Technology in Education. The online event is free and will take place between October 13th and 15th, starting at 7:30 pm.

The new coronavirus pandemic affected all sectors of society and the economy, also accelerating the technological changes that were already taking place in the educational sphere. It became even more evident during this period that several activities could be developed in other spaces.

Thinking about it, and inserted in this process, the Congress proposes necessary and fundamental reflections for a truly empowering education, and for those who intend to be in constant evolution.
